TO QUERY BOSTON MAN ON MURDER

Body of Girl, Missing for a Week, Found in Moat of Newport Fort

Daniel Murphy, Boston youth and former sweetheart of Mary Gleason, Newport, R. I., housemaid, is being sought today in connection with the slaying of the girl, whose frozen body was found in the bottom of a moat at Fort Adams, Newport.

George P. Henderson, a private in the U. S. Army, stationed at Fort Adams, the most recent sweetheart of the slain girl, is being held by Army authorities, pending the outcome of the autopsy on the girl's body.

But Murphy, who lives either in South Boston or Roxbury, is being sought by a dozen Newport detectives, that he may be questioned as to his whereabouts last night when the Gleason girl disappeared.

The finding of the now-rotted body of the girl at the bottom of the moat, with a deep gash in her neck and badly lacerated and crushed face and body, is a mystery that has stirred the police authorities throughout New England.

BROKE WITH MURPHY
Murphy, the police have learned, was formerly employed at Newport, and he and the girl kept company for a period of two years.

Wife Charges That Attack Came When She Trapped Rival in Room

Mrs. Snyder, who is suing for divorce, says her husband, Victor, housewife, her when she caught him and another woman in the Snyder apartment at No. 145 Audubon road.

third angle made her escape, according to Mrs. Snyder, after having beaten her with a whip. She called the police but Snyder was gone before they arrived.

The woman, who is Snyder's third wife, said he frequently used her to test his judgment of distance and timing of punches, with the result that her nose was nearly broken on several occasions.

Turn Over.
Murphy, the police have learned, was formerly employed at Newport, and he and the girl kept company for a period of two years.

Maine Victim Shot by Neighbor After Canine Attacks Latter's Daughter

Elliot Mc. Jan. 26.—Howard Spiny, forty-five-year-old widower of Farmer road, died in the Portsmouth Hospital from a bullet wound inflicted following a neighborhood row over a dog.

Harbo T. Lennan, whose nine-year-old daughter was an innocent contributing cause of the trouble, and who was employed in the same department at the Portsmouth Navy Yard as Spiny, is under arrest charged with murder in the first degree.

While the shooting is said to have been due to the fact that Spiny's dog frightened the Lennan girl, the police are said to be making an ulterior motive.

The building owned by Spiny has been extremely unpopular in Elliot for some time, and numerous complaints regarding it have been made to the town authorities.

It is said that Spiny was ordered to tie the animal up and muzzle it, but failed to do so.

Germany Forbidden to Produce War Material

London, Jan. 25 (U.S.S.)—Germany has been forbidden to manufacture warlike material, even for a foreign nation, it was announced today by the Foreign Office.

The ambassador's council has sent a note to Germany, the Foreign Office said, notifying it that the proposed contract of Krupp with the Argentine government to make bullets for the new Argentine machine would be considered a breach of the Versailles treaty.

The council holds, it was stated, that Germany is not permitted to make any "warlike material," and that any proposed action would come under this heading.

Attorney William A. Morse, former legislator and captain of the American and Honorable Artillery Company, died at his home, No. 18 Church street, West Roxbury, today, the 62nd anniversary of his admission to the bar.

The lawyer, one of Massachusetts' best known barriesters, was sixty-two years old and had been ill for six weeks, suffering from a severe attack of the heart.

His death had not been expected, however, and came as a shock to his family.

42 ESCAPE FIRE IN SCHOOL

Teacher Leads Children From Smoke-Filled Hyde Park Portable Structure

Forty-two children marched to safety in a minute and a half when fire broke out in a portable wooden school building adjoining the Tremont School, in the Rugby section of Hyde Park, today.

As smoke filled the building and flames reached the portable, Miss Smith, the school teacher, marshaled the little tots, all six and seven years of age, around the "fire drill" and marched with the children to the schoolyard.

While flames belched the flames within the portable building teachers in the main school quitted 249 other pupils.

Attracted by the alarm and arrival of fire apparatus, hundreds of members of the neighborhood rushed to the school, fearing for the safety of their children.

James Clark, janitor of the school, while at work in the main building, saw smoke rolling from the roof of the portable structure. He called a fire alarm and marched with the children to the schoolyard.

British Welcome Coolidge's Plan for World Court

London, Jan. 25 (U.S.S.)—The British Foreign Office said today that it welcomed President Coolidge's statement in regard to the proposed world court. Great Britain, it added, "prepared to support such a court."

President Coolidge urged an international world court as a step toward world peace, when he spoke yesterday in Washington before a delegation of women.

TOURISTS FROM HUB UNDER FIRE IN CHINA

Cornell Winner of 'Booby Prize' for Eclipse Blunder

SCIENTIST DEFENDS SIGNALS

Fails to Hear Word Go at Crucial Moment and College Misses Photographs

The eclipse is all over and a matter of history as far as the average citizen is concerned, but as far as the scientific world is concerned—Oh Boy!

Centuries that will pass for the next quarter of a century already leaving the scientific world wondering: From dark rooms from laboratories and from dusty studies, the first of the conclusions resulting from the observations are already trickling, but the heavy digests of what were learned in the heavens, Saturday will not be ready for many months to come.

Of all the tragic stories resulting from the missing of the scientists in the path of totality of the eclipse, the story is awarded to Cornell.

TELESCOPE INSTALLED. The big telescope at the Purcell observatory at Cornell, with a focal length of 100 feet, was set in position to photograph the total eclipse of the sun.

It was the first time that such a delicate and costly instrument had been devoted to this work and wonderful results were anticipated.

The student at the observatory was not in charge of the work. "When observers outside give the signal, we take the photograph," the student was told. He took his post inside the observatory, every one sat in readiness to play his part in the great drama of the heavens.

The quarters outside the building watched the shadow of the moon well on the face of the sun.

FAILS TO HEAR SIGNAL. The signal for the exposure of the photograph was to be given when the face of the sun was entirely covered.

A large crowd had gathered outside the observatory. "Go! Go!" shouted the official observers to the student at the crucial moment.

Some minutes later, when the eclipse was rapidly passing, the man of science still sat behind his window.

FIREMEN RAP BOUND, ROBBED BY BANDITS; LOSES $28

The indignation of the members of the Boston fire department has been aroused by the dragging of the names of their late chief, John O. Maher, into an unwarranted robbery.

The fireman, who was employed, Ernest Doyle, was bound, gagged and robbed today.

After taking $25 and a gold watch, the bandits left Doyle on the cellar floor, and departed without attempting to open the office safe.

Doyle and his partner, who were bound and gagged, were taken to the police station and then taken to the home on State street.

Old Rhode Island Debt Law Sends 85 to Jail

Providence, Jan. 26.—During the past year, seventy-five men and five women have been thrown into jail by installment laws, through invoking a Poor Debtor's Law, a relic of the colonial days.

By the terms of the old statute a person owing a debt may be thrown into jail, without hearing or redress, for failure to pay.

HAIRDRESSERS' SHOW BANS 'BOB' LOCKS

Nary a bobbed head, not a single one, is to be shown at the Hairdressers' Style Show which opens today at Horticultural Hall.

The maid of the show locks won't have a bobbin, but there will be all kinds of new and attractive coiffures for the girl who kept her coiffure of glory intact, displayed by professional models.

A ray of hope for the "bobbed" comes in the form of a new little disarming bunches of curls and those who have been up with the times will see some clever modes of arranging these "bobbed" locks.

The Annual Trade Exhibition and style show is always largely attended and this year's show is expected to continue all afternoon.

"The art of the hairdresser is not what it was even a few years ago," says Miss Alice Conner, prominent in her profession in Boston. "At one time it was a case of beauty culture, and even plastic surgery. Beauty has become a profession. Several of my girls, professional models, will take part in the show, and will display the latest styles in coiffure."

"But there will be no bobs." The style show proper will be held in the evening and will include lovely dances as well as the fashion parade.

Something has happened in Chicago!

Circulation Facts and Figures

The Evening American has had the largest circulation of any Chicago evening newspaper since June, 1921.

Daily average net-paid circulation of the Chicago Evening American for 1924 was 457,386, which exceeded that of the second evening paper by more than 56,000.

Chicago Evening American gained more than 58,000 daily average circulation in 1924 over 1923, while the second evening paper gained less than 15,000.

Daily average net-paid city and suburban circulation of the Chicago Evening American for 1924 was 396,014, which exceeded that of the second evening paper by more than 19,000.

Probably no other great city in America produced more important advertising and merchandising changes than occurred in Chicago during 1924. These changes may be attributed principally to the history-making circulation progress achieved by one Chicago newspaper—THE EVENING AMERICAN.

First in circulation in Chicago's evening paper field for more than three and a half years, the Evening American became predominantly first during 1924.

What Chicago merchants think of the Evening American is vividly reflected by the manner in which they used its advertising columns during 1924. The Chicago Evening American alone received an increase of 519,306 lines of local display advertising over 1923, while all of the other Evening, Morning and Sunday Chicago papers combined gained 445,017 lines.

The growing preference for the Chicago Evening American so strongly expressed by local merchants is not confined to any single classification of advertising. It applies to every major division of business.

A clean, home newspaper in the strictest application of the term, the Chicago Evening American furnishes a greater contact with representative families in this market than does any other evening newspaper.

National advertisers who recognize Chicago's changed conditions in the evening paper field; who advertise for Chicago business in 1925 on the basis of present advertising values will realize to the fullest extent the possibilities of this great market.

MOTHER HUNTING KIDNAPED CHILD

MR. AND MRS. FRASCA

Mrs. Frasca was awarded the custody of her daughter, Mary, when she was granted a divorce from her husband, Frasca, in 1918. She was granted a divorce from her husband, Frasca, in 1918. She was granted a divorce from her husband, Frasca, in 1918.

WIFE CHARGES
EX-HUSBAND
STOLE CHILD
Charged with kidnapping his four-year-old daughter, Mary Louie J. Frasca, of Brookline, he is being sought by the police.

On January 14, Mrs. Elizabeth Frasca, living at No. 13 Pelham, Medford, was granted a divorce from her husband, the divorce court with it a stipulation that she should have the custody of the child.

On Wednesday, Mrs. Frasca told the police, her divorced husband appeared at her home to see the child. He spent some time with the child, pleading with Mrs. Frasca, but he departed, to be allowed to take the child home with him. The woman refused.

A short time later, she said, he came to the house and took Mary away. She has seen neither of them since.

Minor Bruises All That Physicians Could Find on Dorchester Teamster
Buried beneath tons of coal in the yards of the Mt. Hope Coal Company, No. 61-67 North street, Dorchester, Albert Weibler, 48 years old, was rescued by fellow-employees today.

Armed with a pickaxe and shovel, the men dug Weibler from the mountain of coal that covered him, and raised him to City Hospital. There he was found to be suffering merely from bruises to the right thigh, right arm and right hand. After receiving medical treatment, he was permitted to go to his home, No. 13 Carlow street, Dorchester. Weibler was loading a sled when a large pile of coal collapsed and engulfed him.

ONLY ONE AUTO DEATH
IN NEWBURYPORT IN 1924
Newburyport, Jan. 26.—Marshall McManis notes an error in the annual report of fatal accidents last year in the cities of the Commonwealth issued on Saturday by Motor Registrar Frank A. Good.

Newburyport is recorded as having five deaths due to auto accidents, but the actual number of the men were struck by a locomotive at the crossing in Newbury and brought to a local hospital, the official thinks the mistake should be acknowledged by the registrar. A bicyclist was run down by a trolley, and her death followed her removal to the Massachusetts Hospital.

WOMAN SHOTS AND KILLS
SELF IN KILL RIVER
Cumberland, R. I., Jan. 26.—Mrs. Hattie Kimball, thirty-four years old, died instantly from a bullet wound, she had taken a revolver and pressed it to her breast to decide her fate after he had objected to the breakfast she had prepared. The police say the woman was discharged accidentally.

Rebel's Kin Surrenders
Vera Cruz, Mexico, Jan. 26.—Alfonso Sanchez, brother of the rebel chief, General Francisco Sanchez, has surrendered at Jalapa, Alphonso said his brother had left the country, but rumors in the city that he is hiding in the mountains.

Jefferson in 'Van Winkle Role' for Church Window
New York, Jan. 26.—A memorial window to Joseph Jefferson, representing him in his famous role of Rip Van Winkle, which is to be placed in "The Little Church Around the Corner" has been ordered. The window, which is to be placed in the church in England and will be shipped to this country.

FLOWERS AND ROBSON READY FOR BOUQUET

TIGER HERE, SET FOR SPRING

By JACK CONWAY
TIGER FLOWERS is ready to spring again. George's first spring is in our midst for the purpose of building Tommy Robson of Malden in a second bout at the Commercial A. C. show at Mechanics Building tomorrow night.

The Tiger acted like an electrically charged instrument as he went through a light workout at a local gym. His recent knockout at the hands of Jack Delaney has apparently made him more determined than ever to batter his way up the pugilistic heights.

"My charge that there were slugs in Jack Delaney's right glove is not based on hearsay or what I think, but on facts which I could prove if necessary," said Walk Miller, Flowers' manager, today.

"It would be bad policy for the good of the boxing game if I should prove my charges," continued Miller. "The Tiger was not permanently injured. I have been guaranteed by the New York Boxing Commission that they will take precaution in the future to guard against any boxer putting metal in his glove."

"Watch the records of Flowers and Delaney from now on. You will find that the Tiger will do the most execution. I am sure Delaney won't be putting over any more of his seasonal knockouts. He will be watched too closely."

MILLER apparently believes in keeping Flowers busy in the ring. Here is the program he has mapped out for the Georgian, who remains a great drawing card despite his upset at the hands of De la Cruz.

Tommy Robson, 10 rounds, Boston, Jan. 27.
Billy Barnes, 12 rounds, Boston, Jan. 28.
Jamesie McM, 12 rounds, Dayton, O., Feb. 4.
Battling Elks, 10 rounds, Atlanta, Ga., Feb. 8.

Jackie Clark, 12 rounds, New York, Feb. 14.
Paul Bernbach, 12 rounds, New York, Feb. 14.
Johnny Wilson, 10 rounds, Boston, March 26.

A glance at the above lineup should firmly establish Miller Flowers as one of the biggest fighters to hit the pugilistic ring in many months.

ROBSON was also likely to finish his training by beating Max Miller without any of his usual stoppage. Flowers without the aid of any mental assistance in his gloves. Tommy points to the way he knocked Mike O'Brien around at the arena and to his bout with Harry Green, Young Fighting, George Robinson and virtually all the other star fighters.

Robson has never been knocked out by his first, let alone knocked out. He is prepared to admit the Tiger is a first class fighting man, but he adds it is his master.

FRONT CARNEL, New Bedford, a heavyweight, will have Johnny Burke of Manchester, N. H., as an opponent in the semifinal of the rounds. Cherry is one of the most promising little fighters in the country and will make Harbo step lively to lose. There'll also be a couple of other exciting fights.

FOURTEEN YANKEES HAVE SIGNED 1925 CONTRACTS
New York Jan. 25.—The members of the New York Yankees have already signed their 1925 contracts, according to an announcement made by Edward G. Harrow, secretary of the club.

Watts C. Hoyt, Robert Hawkey and Urtin Bruckner are the only regular players who have signed up, while Henry Mauerbach is the only rookie whose contract is on the record.

The veteran, Everett Scott, to the regular infielder whose signed contract has been returned. Lou Gehrig and Howard Chalkie, infielders, have also signed up.

THE COURT A. C. OF LYNN has a show card for tonight that should attract the followers of the game who like action. There are five star rounds on the bill.

Carl Roche of Everett is paired with Joe Ome of Port Randa. Tommy Duffy of Everett, who lost to Jimmy Connelly of Brockton recently, will meet the Brockton boy.

Duffy has promised to jump off the back of those lads in fighting like he has been defeated by Connelly. Connelly says that Duffy is to be a good lad.

Tommy Carlin of Boston was the first to see Frank Curran of Hialeah, who has proved to be a sensation in the short time that he has been in the game.

Johnny Ryan of Boston, a former pupil of Frank O'Neil, thinks that he can beat Curran.

Frankie Ryan of Boston, the boy who brought such a sensational little two weeks ago, meeting thirteen knockdowns in five rounds, will meet again in a return battle.

Harvard Caught 'Tigers'

Below Par for Moment, Declares Captain Creed

This is the first of a series of sporting articles written for the Boston American by Captain Percy Redfern Creed, international sportsman and sports writer. Captain Creed is not only an authority on sports but a poet on the subject as well. Most of his articles will be published over the radio. Captain Creed will be available for any sporting correspondence looking to the promotion of the game and his services will be gladly loaned to other organizations by the Boston American.

Harvard had Princeton at the arena on Saturday night by a score of 2 to 0.

YOUTH is the first thing in the world—youth only know it. This reflection was provoked by the exhibition of the Harvard and Princeton players on Saturday.

By Tad DAY, FOUNDER OF GIANTS, DIED OF POVERTY

Cliffside, N. J., Jan. 25.—John B. Day, first president of the New York baseball club of the National League and founder of the Giants, who lost his fortune fighting to keep the Giants in the National League, died here in poverty yesterday.

His funeral will be held in an undecorated shop in New York city tomorrow.

Paralysis had left him a helpless cripple for years, and he was seldom able to turn the 15 dials on his telephone. "Old man" (calling) John B. Day, his partner, he established the New York club and on several occasions he was elected to the National League.

Two years later they were able to reach Chicago and first place. Their contract contained a clause that they were to be paid in 1910 with the franchise of the National League.

Money was soon found out, but they were on their own resources in the fight against the National League and had a great deal of trouble.

For a time he was retained as a manager and then he was dropped out of sight, remembered only when some newspaper article in his file revealed him to the attention of the football managers.

Detroit Baseball Franchise, Now Worth Millions, Once Sold for $12,000 at Public Auction

This is the fourth of a series of articles on the history of the Detroit baseball franchise, now worth millions, once sold for $12,000 at public auction.

When prices of values of major league baseball franchises are mentioned today the figures usually run into the millions. But there was a time when the value of a franchise was a matter of local pride in which the question of making money was as often as not a secondary consideration.

It is not surprising that a franchise would not consider a loan on a franchise under any consideration and where money was advanced at all it was either on the real estate or the personal note of the owner.

The first American League franchise, today valued at millions, was once sold at public auction for $12,000, a price which was a matter of local pride.

FINANCE

By B. C. Forbes

Business is moving along satisfactorily, but not spectacularly. Its progress is not so satisfactory as it was yesterday.

The security markets with steel attacks and financial news rather than lower, with transactions in stock will average about 100,000 shares daily.

Business conditions, however, are pointing to an early advance in the Federal reserve discount rate, which is a substantial improvement, measured by the gain in reserve ratio. No change in the official discount rate is yet within sight.

Shipping exchange went about $1.50, to within five points of parity and authoritative advices from London indicate that a new market for gold will shortly be established there.

There are basically important developments.

Of course, the Federal movement in business is not uniform; some industries are doing better than others, but it is worth noting that the big industrial group after another is showing signs of recovery. The steel industry is a case in point.

Oil prices are being advanced further sharply, with gasoline falling. The leading of steel is rising, as is likely that the current demand for wellhead iron ore is continuing to grow. This is a transformation in the industry as the year progresses.

The copper industry, after being along all through last year, is now showing signs of recovery. The industry has now reached a level where new construction will be started.

The far-reaching textile industry is now doing better. The industry is reported from different Southern sources, while New England manufacturers are turning economic statistics showing their position in relation to stocks on hand and in stock.

General Motors has been in the news, with its financial position. General Motors has been in the news, with its financial position.

There is a new thing called "buying" in the market.

Domestic dry goods, including food and clothing, are showing a marked expansion in employment during last year.

BUSINESS IS KEEPING UP RECENT GAIN

By FRANK MELROSE

General trade has been well maintained during the past week, and the spirit of optimism still prevails.

The textile situation has shown some improvement, as evidenced by the increase in the number of New England plants, but there is still much to be done for the industry.

Definite for building materials and for the time of the year.

Steel manufacturers report orders on hand are satisfactory.

Steel mills No. 116, now in the hands of the Massachusetts Committee on Banks and Banking, is expected to give a good deal of trouble to the State's right to the industry.

BACK HURTS BEGIN ON SALTS

Your Kidneys Occasioned by Drinking Too Much Salt

Many people make a mistake in thinking that drinking too much salt water is harmless. It is not. It is a serious matter.

The kidneys are the organs of the body which filter out the waste matter from the blood. If they are overworked, they will become diseased.

Back hurts are a common symptom

The Value of Little Things

Every Day Is a Little Life, and Our Whole Life Is Made Up of Little Things

It is interesting to note that little things sometimes destroy or mar great reputations—how we cherish in our childhood certain vocations, ideas and dreams and how a most trivial incident will change the destiny of our lives.

Two drops of rain, falling side by side, are separated a few inches by a gentle breeze. Striking on opposite sides of the roof of a courthouse in Wisconsin, one rolled southward through the Rock River and the Mississippi to the Gulf of Mexico, while the other entered the Fox River, Green Bay, Lake Michigan and finally found its way through the St. Lawrence River to the Gulf of St. Lawrence, thousands of miles from the destination of the other particle.

"Arletta's pretty feet, glistening in the brook, made her the mother of William the Conqueror," says Palgrave's "History of Normandy and England." Had she not thus fascinated Duke Robert the Liberal, of Normandy, Harold would not have fallen at Hastings, no Anglo-Norman dynasty could have arisen, and no British Empire.

By gnawing through a dike, even a rat may drown a nation.

The act of a moment may cause a life's regret.

A trigger may be pulled in an instant, but the soul is gone forever.

Trifles light as air often suggest to the thinking mind ideas which have revolutionized the world.

While Thomas Edison was singing into the mouthpiece of a telephone the vibration of his voice caused a fine steel point to pierce his finger held just behind the phone. The phonograph is the result of this trivial occurrence.

Bits of glass arranged to amuse children led to the discovery of the kaleidoscope.

Goodyear discovered how to vulcanize rubber by forgetting, until it became red hot, a skillet containing a compound which he had before considered worthless.

Watch the trivial things, keep your eyes open, there is opportunity everywhere.

Bunker Hill Day

June 17th, This Year, the 150th Anniversary of the Battle.

Having been successful in getting a favorable report from the House Library Committee at Washington on the Tague bill, providing for the participation of the Federal Government in the 150th anniversary celebration of the Battle of Bunker Hill, Representative Peter F. Tague will give all of his time for the five weeks which remain of the present session to the task of urging it through the House of Representatives. A measure identical with the Tague bill has been introduced in the Senate, by Senator Butler.

As chairman of the Republican National Committee and the President's personal representative in the Senate, Mr. Butler is a power to be reckoned with.

The time is short. The anniversary occurs in June. The present Congress will die in March. But Butler and Tague are a strong combination.

Having already provided for Federal participation in the Patriots' Day celebrations of the battles of Lexington and Concord, Congress should not turn a deaf ear to Charlestown.

How Henry Cabot Lodge will be missed, when the time comes to choose the Bunker Hill orator!

President Coolidge Will Fix It

He Lives in This Century

The Naval Board, opposing President Coolidge, would demand a big old-fashioned navy. One hundred and ten million dollars a year for twenty years is what the board would spend building obsolete battleships and other naval junk.

The President, however, will stop that nonsense and see that this country is supplied with the world's best fleet of fighting airplanes.

If we had only enemy battleships to think of, we should not need much of an air fleet.

Two flying machines, costing $10,000, could sink any $45,000,000 battleship on the water in an hour. One hundred thousand dollars' worth of flying machines would easily destroy the two THOUSAND MILLION DOLLARS' worth of ships that a foolish Naval Board proposes to build.

Fortunately, President Coolidge is living in this century, not in the last.

About Women as Teachers

Wells Worries Too Much

H. G. Wells, born to reform the world and busy with the job, is worried about our American schoolboys.

He says our public schools have too many WOMEN teaching, and we shall raise them not manly.

The whole truth with only a few exceptions, primary education, according to Wells, is to be found in the fact that "it is in the hands of women."

England has more men teaching, and so Mr. Wells is afraid that our boys will be inferior to the British, etc.

Mr. Wells needs' worry. Women have done the educating work of this world from the very beginning. They have changed men from savage cave men and cannibals to what they are now.

A woman taught Abraham Lincoln. He was manly.

Laws for Some

Not for All

Mrs. Scott, wife of a Michigan Congressman, suing for divorce, declares a party at her house, saying the drinking was about the same as "in the average Congressman's house in Washington." The fact that prohibition laws do not control the legislators that pass the law has something to do with general public contempt for at least part of the Constitution.

The miraculous thing is the patience of the ordinary people. They know well that the laws regulating them do not regulate the well-to-do. The latter do as they please. Yet the little men, 90 per cent. of them, respect the laws even when they are class laws.

THE ECLIPSE IN RUSSIAN AFFAIRS

A WIFE'S MEDITATIONS

By HELEN ROWLAND

TO some men, the challenge in every new girl's eyes is like a telephone ring; they afraid to miss something if they don't answer it.

Before marriage a man will take over miles of wire but, to hear the sound of a girl's voice, he will sometimes walk over miles of ground. HELEN ROWLAND

When the marriage of love is broken and the wheels of the heart won't go round any more, there's no use hanging onto the "old case."

A woman can always profit by her mistakes unless one of her husbands is a husband; then, it's the other woman who profits.

Every man feels that marriage would last a lot longer, if he could only "stare" his wife's underwear.

The average man's heart is not broken, but nearly cracked; heart that hollow sound, when a woman takes it for sentiment.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaels

I DO not know your name, your face, nor have I touched your hand, no slightest hint reveals your name, or tells your native land. We passed, as ships far out at sea might pass through deepening night, the sea's self dim with mystery below heaven's dusky height. And yet, in passing by, you sent a thought of cheer my way, a thought of courage that has lent new sweetness to this day.

localities. We are organized here, and making a good try at the game, but need imagination and thinking, which are things that stimulate. We have neglected one of our greatest assets, in not making the most of winter. But it does seem as if the little men, 90 per cent. of them, respect the laws even when they are class laws.

Winter Sports

I want to express to you my heartiest appreciation of the editorial page in your issue of Jan. 21, relative to winter sports. I wish there was some way by which it could get to the notice of everyone interested in the subject. The writer of your article obviously knows his subject, covering so many different phases and

Nothing to Eat

Helping Hand Editor: We are very much in need of help, as my husband has been out of work for some time and there are no light ones of his going back to work soon. There are five children. There is nothing in the house to eat, no fire, and we are a mother's rest and love of other kids. My boy's age is thirteen, eleven, four; girls nine and baby five months. I expect my four-year-old boy home from the hospital now, and he has no rubber or rubbers. He wears a 7 shoe, I need shoes, 3 and rubbers. My husband is a painter by trade but will be glad to do anything.

Free Home for Child

Helping Hand Editor: Would like to have you help me get in touch with someone needy, whose child would benefit by living in the country. We offer a free home to a child who needs care and attention, but whose mother, not being in good enough circumstances, cannot provide for her as she would wish. We live on a farm where there is plenty of fresh air and opportunity for outdoor play, wholesome food and careful supervision in a private family. Our aim is to help a mother tide over a hard time.

THE PENALTY OF NOTORIETY

By DR. FRANK CRANE

THE penalty of notoriety is that one must throw stones at a prominent object.

The writer was once delivering a lecture at a public meeting in the audience, and the speaker being the object in view was his chosen target.

The love of being prominent, or famous, is a trait in human nature that is to be pointed at and noted as a prominent point.

But there is a trait in human nature that is to be pointed at and noted as a prominent point.

There are thousands of people who would like to be prominent, or famous, or to be pointed at and noted as a prominent point.

There are many people who believe they are not prominent, or famous, or to be pointed at and noted as a prominent point.

One of the members of Dr. Percy Stickney's class hit the nail on the head the other day when he said: "It is not the man who is prominent, but the man who is pointed at."

There are just enough poor losers in this world to make the successful not a happy one.

At the same time, it is impossible to be a success unless you are a failure.

The only way to be safe in this world is to be a success, or to be a failure.

No matter what it is that brings a person success, whether ability, or riches, it makes a man the venomous shaft of a few lively.

It is rare, therefore, to find a man who has success who, at the same time, is kindly and free from envy.

There are some such, and they deserve a great credit.
